

1 Why should I document my Will?

Making a Will enables your assets to be distributed according to your wishes after death. For Christians, a Will can be written to reflect our lives and our faith. Known as a bequest, a gift to Insight for Living enables you to make a difference well into the future. Through your bequest to Insight for Living, you pass on to future generations a legacy in which you enable Insight for Living:

- to continue broadcasting the truths of Scripture and the person of Jesus Christ;
- to provide much needed personal support to a wide variety of people in your local community;
- to encourage and equip pastors personally and with their congregations; and
- to present Christ to younger generations.

2 Is it wise to seek legal advice?

When preparing a Will, it is advisable to seek qualified legal advice from a Solicitor or Trustee Company to ensure you achieve all you wish for your family and others through your Will.

3 Who should my executors be?

Although family members are often chosen to be an Executor of a Will, it may be wiser to consider a professional and independant Executor or Joint Excecutor to minimise the burden on your family and friends at a difficult time.

4 Forms of Bequest

When preparing your Will, we urge you to consider including one or both of the following forms of bequest to ensure that Insight for Living continues to proclaim God's Word to as many people as possible.
